TB: How can London stem the tide?

Speakers:

Dr Helen Booth, Consultant in Thoracic Medicine, UCLH, and clinical lead for the North Central London TB Service

Dr Phil Gothard, Consultant in Infectious Diseases and Tropical Medicine, Hospital for Tropical Diseases, UCLH

Clinic staff, North Central London TB Service

Programme:

Tuberculosis: how can London stem the tide? A case study of a community outbreak. Helen Booth, Phil Gothard and staff of the NCL TB Service will examine a recent outbreak of TB in a north London hostel.

- The team will describe the approaches used to diagnose complex cases, how contacts were detected and managed, and the impact of international migration on the changing epidemiology of TB in London.

- We will also be discussing screening for TB in primary care and what you can offer at your own surgery.

The event is FREE of charge.

Where: Royal College of GPs, 30 Euston Square, NW1 2FB.

6.30pm-9pm
